

Duncan L. Niederauer

EDUCATION

Duncan L. Niederauer graduated from Bay Shore High School in June of 1977. He earned an MBA from Emory University and a BA from Colgate University.

CAREER

Duncan L. Niederauer served as Chief Executive Officer of NYSE and President of ICE until September 2014.

Duncan L. Niederauer was appointed Chief Executive Officer and director of NYSE Euronext on December 1, 2007, after joining NYSE Euronext in 2007 as a member of the management committee. Duncan L. Niederauer also served on the boards of NYSE Group and Euronext N.V. and previously he served as President and co-Chief Operating Officer of NYSE Euronext with responsibility for U.S. cash equities. During his tenure as Chief Executive Officer of NYSE Euronext, Duncan L. Niederauer oversaw the transformation of the company into an innovative, globally integrated organization with a high-tech, high-touch focus.

Duncan L. Niederauer was previously a partner at The Goldman Sachs Group, Inc. (United States) (GS) where he held many positions, among them, co-head of the Equities Division execution services franchise and the managing director responsible for Goldman Sachs Execution & Clearing, L.P. (formerly known as Spear, Leeds & Kellogg L.P.). Duncan L. Niederauer joined Goldman Sachs in 1985.

Mr. Niederauer is a general partner of 555 Capital, an angel investment fund, and a Managing Director of Battery East, LLC, which provides advisory services to private companies. In addition to advising several start-up companies, Duncan also sits on the boards of Colgate University, as well as those of Stuart Frankel & Co., The American Ireland Fund and the Congressional Medal of Honor Foundation.

He has received numerous career distinctions and honors, most notably the John C. Whitehead Award for leadership in 2014. He was also recognized as an Honorary Commander of the British Empire (CBE) by Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II, in 2013 for his efforts to advance the peace process in Northern Ireland.

Duncan L. Niederauer and his wife led the Newmark School's "Destination of Promise" campaign, which built a state-of-the-art school for children with autism and related disabilities in Scotch Plains, NJ.

